MORE AID FOR TURKS, GREEKS ASKED

Water Up, Pumper Quits

Reservoir Supply Increases

Mayor Seeks Aid of Public

Mansfield's water supply crisis was solved temporarily today when the water level in the Woodland reservoir climbed beyond the 11-foot mark.

Automatic pumps at the reservoir went back into operation about noon Sunday, supplying homes in Woodland and South Boulevards without the help of a fire pumper. The pumper had been in emergency use since Thursday night when hundreds of homes in the southwest section of the city were without water.

Meanwhile, Mayor Roy W. Vaughn said today he hopes to enlist the aid of all citizens at the public meeting in the municipal court room Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

"We intend to explain the exact status of the situation and to ask industry, labor, and private citizens to conserve as much water as possible until we can get the new pipeline and pumping station completed," he said.

Work on the special pump being installed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company well was held up today because a chlorinator, due from New York, had not arrived.

The city hopes this well will supply an additional 750,000 gallons of water a day. It will be continued in service as long as it is needed.

Operation Saves Girl

Takes Place of Dog In Experiment

CANTON — (AP) — Betty Lee Woolridge lay in bed today resting and making plans—plans for a life that now stretched ahead of her for years instead of days.

The 21-year-old Canton girl came home yesterday from Charleston, S. C., where she staked her life on a rare and dangerous heart-valve operation. Doctors predicted she soon could lead a nearly normal life.

"I know I am going to be all right again," said Betty.

The girl was a clerk at the Timken Roller Bearing company plant when her illness became serious in May, 1946. Doctors gave her only a year to live. Scar tissue, an after-effect of rheumatic fever, was closing over a vital heart valve.

Betty read of the experiments with the heart valves of dogs being conducted by Dr. Horace Smithy, 34, assistant professor of surgery at the Medical College of South Carolina.

She told Dr. Smithy:

"Why use dogs when you can use human beings? If anything happened to me, you might learn something which could help someone else."

Dr. Smithy explained to reporters Miss Woolridge "must always be considered a heart patient" but that the operation relieved "a considerable amount of strain due to the blocked valve. We expect to perform the same operation on other patients in the near future."

Ground Falls; Girl, 11, Dies

RIVERSIDE, N. J.—(AP)—Eleven-year-old Dorothy Kenney sank to her death as the ground of a lawn adjoining her home gave way beneath her.

Her eight-year-old brother, Joseph, stood by helplessly yesterday as Dorothy struggled and screamed for help. Dirt, ice and slush piled on top of the girl as she disappeared from sight.

Her body was dug from a hidden well by a fire rescue squad two hours later. Police said apparently recent rains and snows weakened the well covering of leaves that has accumulated through the years.

Floods, Frigidity Ease Up

Mansfielders basked in weather almost spring-like today as the elements relented over the wide area of the midwest and south which had been plagued with floods, torrential rains, snow, ice and biting cold.

While the Ohio river still is scheduled to rise past flood stage at some points and more high water damage was seen as inevitable, river forecasters and weathermen generally were optimistic.

"Only minor damage" is expected at Cincinnati, Associated Press reported today, where the Ohio river is expected to crest Wednesday at 55 feet, three feet above flood stage.

Other points at which some flooding is expected include Huntington, W. Va., Portsmouth, O., and Maysville, Ky. One of the flood gates was closed last night at Ironton, O., and the other gate was to be closed today.

ICE FLOATS OUT

With the rising water, the last of a mass of ice which had jammed the Ohio river for two weeks flowed freely in the lower branches of the stream, and river traffic was on the move, Associated Press said.

Meanwhile, residents of flood-ravaged southern states found some relief today from high waters which have spilled over river banks and driven them from their lowland homes. The U. S. weather bureau added to the optimism by predicting fair weather as the waters slowly recede.

For Ohio, the forecast was cloudy and mild tonight and tomorrow with colder and possible snow flurries late Tuesday. Mansfield temperatures over the weekend were: high 37, at 3:30 p. m. Sunday, and low 30, at midnight.

State Route 95 west of Perrysville and at Lakefork was reported closed today by flood waters. A number of major routes were blocked in southern Ohio by tributaries of the Ohio river.

Relax Gas Ban In City

G. K. Schooler, manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas company in Mansfield, announced today that restrictions of the supply of gas to industrial consumers have been relaxed.

He said the company was delivering 66 per cent of the normal as compared with 10 per cent of normal on Saturday.

"How long the easing of restrictions will last," Schooler said, "depends on the weather and on construction work on new pipe lines now being done by our suppliers."

But in Cleveland the East Ohio Gas company announced today that only 50 per cent of the normal gas supply for industrial use will be available to the Cleveland area for the remainder of the winter according to United Press.

The announcement means continued crippling of industrial production in the area where upwards of 5,000 persons already have been laid off because of the gas shortage. Many of the 5,000 may not be called back until spring.

East Ohio explained that its reserves had been badly depleted by the long spell of cold weather.

Rockefellers Honeymoon

PALM BEACH, Fla.— (UP) — The honeymooning Withrop Rockefellers, slipping away from the society set, today became just ordinary tourists on a leisurely drive through Florida.

Rockefeller and his beauty queen bride, whom he married at the stroke of midnight on Valentine day, decided to get out on the highway and see the sights in southern Florida.

Sometime next week Rockefeller will take his bride, the daughter of Lithuanian immigrants, back to New York and establish her in a sumptuous Park avenue apartment, some distance from the Third avenue "walkup" flat where she lived during their courtship.

Old Age Aid Bulge Asked

Pensions Urged For 20 Million More

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Truman administration pleaded anew with Congress today to let more people qualify for old age pensions.

And Rep. Kean (R-N.J.) outlined his own plan to add 20,000,000 workers to the eligible list.

The administration went further. It said the government needs a program covering "all major risks to economic independence" including disability and medical care insurance.

This objective was outlined in the annual report of the social security administration. President Truman is expected to follow it up shortly with his promised special message on the subject.

Kean has drafted a bill to carry out his ideas. He told newsmen it actually will save the government money in the long run.

His plan is to make the self-employed, including farmers and small businessmen, eligible for old age pensions under the social security system. Domestic workers, farm hands and others would be included, too. So would state and local government workers, if the state so desired.

All told, some 60,000,000 people would be covered, compared with the 40,000,000 now.

The social security report favored adding all these people and more. It suggested including federal workers as well as members of the armed forces and railroad workers not now covered by their own pension systems.

Shelby Punch Boards Out

SHELBY—Punch boards today had been ordered out of the Shelby business places, Mayor W. R. Morris disclosed.

The boards, ostensibly for selling merchandise were in many cases being used as "money" boards, city officials revealed.

Police Chief Leroy Coffey instructed the Shelby patrolmen to warn the merchants to remove all of the boards.

Challenge To Churchgoers

Calls on Christians To Test Their Faith

A challenge to Mansfield and Richland county church goers to prove their Christianity was presented by Dr. R. J. Wells to the audience which filled Johnny Appleseed auditorium last night in the first of the three-week revival series here.

The evangelistic services, sponsored jointly here by the Layman's Evangelistic Movement of Ohio and 20 churches in this area are expected to draw thousands to the Johnny Appleseed auditorium during the three weeks, Rev. Albert L. Linder said today.

"We are very pleased with the turnout last night. It was a splendid crowd and an enthusiastic meeting," he said.

"Members who can't present clear-cut evidence of a transformed life, should get out of their churches," declared Dr. Wells.

Dr. Wells based his text on second Corinthians, verses five to seven. "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things have passed away; all things have become new."

URGES TEST

"Many of you Mansfield people say 'Yes' when asked if you are Christians, but how do you know? Can you measure up to these three things?

"First, are you a new creature? Have you experienced a rebirth? If you are a Christian then you are not the same person you used to be. Second, if you can answer 'yes' then your old sins, your old habits have passed out of your life.

"Finally," he emphasized, "if you are a Christian, then God, who was impersonal, has become a personal Christ and now dwells in your heart. If you have accepted these three things, then you have become a child of God."

"And unless," he concluded, "you have based your Christianity on the Bible it cannot stand—it has no foundation."

MUSIC IS FEATURE

Rev. A. H. Perry, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, gave the opening prayer and Rev. James E. Davey presided. J. Stratton Shufelt, who will be the song leader for the three weeks, was unable to be here last night, so George McNair of the Grace Gospel church led the singing.

McNair was one of the quartet from the church who sang "Dearer Than All." The other three were Jack Shellhaas, William Nash sr. and Alfred Hahn.

The combined choir of 60 voices, which will be present for each of the meetings, sang, "Grace of Jesus." McNair led the choir and audience in an opening song service.

Tonight Dr. Wells will speak on the topic, "What Would Jesus Say to Mansfield?" At 6:45 today he will meet all Sunday school superintendents of this area at the junior high school. Tomorrow at the same hour he will confer with church women, and following tomorrow night's meeting, Dr. Wells will have a conference with the laymen.

Wednesday at 6:45 p. m. he expects to meet with the young church people of the area for a 45-minute conference.

The meetings start each day at 7:30 p. m. and on Sundays at 2:30 p. m.

Rails Granted Higher Fares

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)— The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized Western and Southern railroads to increase their passenger coach fares 13.63 per cent.

The increase, which can be put into effect on five days notice, will boost the one-way coach fare from 2.2 to 2.5 cents a mile with proportionate increases in round-trip fares.

The commission's order authorized the same fare boosts on intrastate coach travel in Arkansas, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota and Wisconsin.

Essential To Progress

Clear Fork Job Held Up By Weather

By SHELDON BINN

Nature has played havoc with the Clear Fork water works project though even with perfect weather it appears that the first benefits from the extensive project were not scheduled for realization until the middle of this year at the very soonest.

The first construction contract was let to Roger J. Au, Mansfield, in October 1946. It called for the construction of the main dam for the project at a cost of $424,000.

The dam, 44 feet high, when completed, will hold back four billion four hundred million gallons of water that will cover a 35-square mile area.

Although scheduled for completion in August 1947, a wet spring held back work on the dam, and by June it became obvious that the work would not be completed until 1948.

Au declared at the time that "the wettest spring in 35 years would probably prevent completion in 1947" and a month later he was granted an extension on the contract completion date.

At present, the dam is 80 per cent complete and it should be finished this summer, barring unforeseen difficulties.

The next contract went to John Richardson and M. P. Teter, Lexington, for clearing the land that will be covered when the water is impounded behind the dam. More than half of that work is finished.

Late last year a contract was let to Au for construction of a 24-inch pipeline from the site of the Donna Shaffer farm at the foot of Cook road to the Woodland reservoir. The Shaffer

FBI Nabs Maritime Secretary

Held as Alien Communist

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Feneral agents today arrested Ferdinand Christafer Smith, national secretary of the CIO National Maritime union, as an alien communist.

Smith, a native of Jamaica, British West Indies, was removed to Ellis Island without bond for deportations proceedings, the Justice department announced.

The arrest was made by immigration service officials and FBI agents when Smith left his home in New York City, this morning, the announcement said.

A warrant charged he entered the country without visa, and had been before and after his entry, "a member of an organization advocating the overthrow of the United States by force and violence."

ACTIVE COMMUNIST

The department said that Smith "has been active for years in behalf of the communist party, and is a long-time member of the party."

(The United Press said Smith's arrest was part of a stepped-up immigration service crackdown on alien communists. In the last few weeks several top leaders of the party have been arrested.)

He apparently first entered this country as a seaman at New Orleans about June 11, 1919, and thereafter remained here for many years, it was stated.

However, the announcement added, he made a trip to Mexico and the warrant on which he was picked up alleges he had no visa when he returned to the United States in 1945.

Smith was born May 31, 1893, in Jamaica, and has long had headquarters in New York City, the department added

Jury Hears Two Cases

Evidence Offered In Double Slaying

The Richland county grand jury, called into special session today by Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, heard evidence against Clarence Greer, 31, of 203 East Fourth street charged with first degree murder, and James Gerald Grice, 19, of 201 East First street, accused of operating a car without the owner's consent.

Greer pleaded guilty in municipal court last Tuesday to the shotgun killing of Mrs. Ella Owens, 31, and her brother, Ezell Taylor, 35, Feb. 9. The brother and sister, police said, were shot to death in their beds. Greer, who reported the killing immediately to the sheriff's office, said both victims rented rooms from him.

Among the witnesses called today were Dr. D. C. Lavender, Richland county coroner, who examined the bodies, and relatives and neighbors of the victims; Henry Allen Taylor and Prince Albert Taylor, 510 North Mulberry street; Odessa Taylor, William Owens and Fox Taylor, 203 East Fourth street; Eliese Lindsay and Billy Lindsay, 224½ North Diamond street.

Called in to testify at the afternoon session were Detective Howard Schuck, Indentification Officer Paul Martin, Lt. Clare Kyler and Sheriff's Deputy Charles Wheeler.

Grice, police said, was involved in the recent activities of the "baby bandit" gang. He was bound over to the grand jury on $1,500 bond after confessing theft of a car from the Place and Birdsong used car lot on Jan. 18.

Union OK's Pay Request

Members of Local 17, United Rubber Workers, CIO, yesterday approved a 30-cent-an-hour wage increase demand to be presented to Mansfield Tire and Rubber company officials this week.

In addition to the wage increase, the workers agreed to ask that part of the 30 cents be allocated for welfare funds, and that the wage increase be in effect as of the date of demand.

Desmond Walker, president of the local, pointed out that the forthcoming negotiations concern only the wage question. The union and the company have a contract that does not expire until May 1, 1949.

Quads Born Just as X-Ray Foretold

LATROBE, Pa.— (AP) —The Zavada quadruplets—three girls and a boy whose coming was forecast by X-Ray last November—entered their second day of life today, apparently "doing just fine."

The babies, not expected until April, were delivered by Caesarian section yesterday to Mrs. Barbara Wagner Zavada, 26-year-old wife of a metal works inspector.

The four infants, weighing a total of 13½ pounds, were born within five minutes.

A half hour after the babies' birth, Father Theodore Hodobay of St. Mary's Greek Catholic church came to the hospital to christen the children John Michael, Bernadette Elizabeth, Barbara Rose and Anna Mary.

Mrs. Zavada's first husband, Harold McBryer, was killed in the Normandy invasion in 1944. She married Andrew Zavada in August, 1946.

Kaiser Files Suit Asking $7,762,500

Corporation Charges Contract Repudiated

NEW YORK —(UP)— Kaiser-Frazer corporation today filed a $7,762,50 suit against the Cleveland investment banking firm of Otis & company, charging "repudiation" of an agreement to purchase stock of the corporation.

The suit grew out of the action of Otis & company, and the First California company, San Francisco, in announcing last week "the whole deal is off" and cancellation of the agreement to underwrite a 1,500,00 share issue of K-F common.

Notice of intention to bring the suit was filed yesterday in Albany, N. Y., with the secretary of state as legal agent for all firms licensed to do business in New York state. The suit was filed today in the New York county court immediately after the county clerk's office opened for the day.

The underwriting group had taken 90,000 shares of the new common and an option on an additional 90,000 shares but subsequently announced that "the whole deal is off" and that funds deposited in Cleveland by dealers would returned to them.

The Securities & Exchange commission, which had approved the registration of the issue, has announced that it is investigating the mix-up but has not issued any statement in the matter.

Postponed once, the issue was intended to provide Kaiser-Frazer with funds needed to step up production of cars from 1,000 to 1,500 a day.

Newcomers Nominated For 'Oscars'

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Selection of pictures and individuals to be honored with "Oscars" for outstanding achievements in movie making were disclosed today.

In the male star competition, too, a newcomer, Michael Redgrave, who turned in a fine performance in "Mourning Becomes Electra," is pitted against four standbys—Ronald Colman, William Powell, John Garfield and Gregory Peck.

Pictures nominated as the best of 1947 were: "Bishop's Wife," Samuel Goldwyn; "Crossfire," RKO; "Gentleman's Agreement," 20th Century-Fox; "Great Expectations," J. Arthur Rank, and "Miracle On 34th Street," 20th Century-Fox.

Truman Asks Hike In Funds

Cites Influence Of Communists

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman told Congress today he will ask more money for military assistance for Greece and Turkey.

Mr. Truman gave this word to the legislators in a report on use of the $400,000,000 they voted last year to help the Greeks and Turks resist communism.

He did not say how much more will be asked.

Last year's fund was $300,000,000 for Greece and $100,000,000 for Turkey.

In a letter sent to Congress with the report on use of their money, the President said Greece has been subjected "to ever higher increasing pressure" by a communist minority subservient to "foreign influences."

There was no mention of Russia by name, or of the Russian satellites in the Balkans.

Greek communist guerrilla forces reportedly have drawn aid from Greece's communist-dominated neighbors.

Mr. Truman said economic assistance can be given Greece under the proposed European recovery program.

He added:

"The European recovery program will not provide, however, for any additional military assistance required for Greece and Turkey, which will, at the appropriate time, be sought from the Congress under public law 75."

Public law 75 is the one under which Greek-Turkish aid funds were voted last year.

'RUTHLES DESTRUCTION'

The president said of the situation in Greece:

"It is significant that the guerrilla warfare is directed not against the Greek army but against the people of Greece. The deliberate and wanton destruction of Greek villages does not result from military engagements.

It is determined and ruthless destruction intended to render people homeless and drive them from the soil; to force them into overcrowded urban centers where they become charges of an already overburdened state; and to create for them conditions of misery and hardship in the hope that this will make them susceptible to political agitation."

He asserted that communist policy "is sapping the economic strength" of Greece while the American mission for aid to that country is seeking to build it up.

PLEASED WITH TURKEY

As for what may come, Mr. Truman said:

"If the guerrilla menace should increase as a result of greater outside assistance, a new situation would be created which would have to be dealt with in the light of circumstances prevailing at that time."

Mr. Truman's only reference in his letter to the situation in Turkey was that he was pleased to be able to report "that the Turkish aid program is proceeding in an orderly manner" and that:

"Careful planning and procurement are now resulting in delivery (of military materials) which can be expected to flow at a fairly uniform rate."

Grains, Stocks Extend Rally

NEW YORK — (AP) — Grains opened higher in Chicago today, continuing a rally begun Saturday.

Other major commodities in the nation's markets also were strong. New York stock market prices were slightly higher in relatively light trading.

Retail food stores continued to feature lower meat prices, but government and livestock experts warned that these price cuts may not stick because of shortages due later in the year.

Wheat opened two to four cents a bushel higher in Chicago. Corn was up similarly and oats up slightly less. Hogs were higher in unexpectedly light trading.

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The Supreme Court today unanimously upheld the constitutionality of the rent control law.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The House banking committee voted 18 to 5 today to extend present rent controls one month beyond the Feb. 29 expiration date, and Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.) forecast control would be continued at least a year "in some form."

Economists Doubt Food Prices Will Hit Pre-War Levels

Better Buys Than Last Month Seen

Experts Say Basic Factors Changed

By JAMES C. AUSTIN

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Four Washington economists agreed today that while grocery prices are going down, they probably never again—in foreseeable time — will reach their pre-war levels.

Too many basic factors have changed since the pre-war years, these economists told the United Press. And so, there is little likelihood of again getting $1.25 wheat, 50-cent steak or 50-cent butter.

All agreed that the lady of the family will get a better buy for her shopping dollar in the next few weeks than she did last month, but on the other hand, they probably never again will look like 1929-1932 or 1935-1939 prices.

The economists questioned included Robert Nathan, former deputy director of the office of war mobilization and reconversion; John Lee Coulter, who was a member of the U. S. tariff commission between 1930 and 1935, and two others who were willing to give their views, but not their names, for publication.

HIGHLIGHTS OF VIEWS

The highlights of their views may be summarized as follows:

1. All agree that the housewife should not get her hopes too high on saving money on the weekly family eating budget. There will be household savings but probably not enough to make a major difference in the whole family budget.

2. The price level will not go down too far, Coulter believes, and pre-war prices are not in the cards unless labor is ready to take a big cut in current wages.

3. It is too early now, in Nathan's opinion, to say whether this is the start of a business recession, but three or four weeks' time may tell. If there is a recession, "it will be short, sharp and painful—not like the long depression that began in 1929," Nathan said.

GRAIN NEAR BOTTOM

4. With good winter crop prospects, we are approaching a temporary bottom in the wholesale prices of grains. A bumper crop this summer could turn these prices still further down until the government was forced to stabilize them with statutory price supports.

"I can't figure why anyone wants to go back to the 1935-1939 price levels, which still were a part of the depression period," Coulter said. "Since we now have so many new obligations—a high national debt, obligations to our fighting men, commitments to Europe — it would be impossible for us to go back to those days and those prices."

The former WPB-CPA economist said that a business recession would depend on whether the government "makes the right decisions." He did not elaborate

Most Civic Music Tickets Gone Before Campaign Opens

Mansfield Civic Music association's membership campaign was "so close to a sell-out" at noon today that old members and new member applicants were urged to get their applications in by 9 a. m. tomorrow. Officials of the association added that all new applications for membership received last week likely will be accepted. The campaign office, set up again this year at the Ohio Fuel Gas company, will open at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Nearly 1,000 applications had been received by the association last night. Only 1,104 memberships can be sold because of the limited seating capacity at John Simpson auditorium where the concerts will be held.

Talent committee of the group expected to meet Tuesday night to line up next season's talent. Program for next year will be announced within a few days.

Mrs. John A. Austin, campaign chairman, said all names of member applicants which cannot be accepted now will be entered on a preferance list from which all new memberships will be drawn in case of cancellations.

Applications may be sent either to Mrs. Austin or to Dean Eckert, in care of the Farmers Savings and Trust company.

Ohio School Funds Slip

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Ohio's public schools, although spending at a record rate, have slipped below pre-war standards, the National Education Association reported today.

A national survey published today by the NEA showed that the purchasing power of school boards throughout the country was less per pupil last year than in 1940.

The report said that Ohio stepped up its public school expenditures by 61 per cent between 1940 and 1947, although that figure fell short of the 66 per cent increase for the nation.

NEA officials took 86 per cent as the best indicator of overall rise in school costs in the inflationary period. It ranked Ohio 13th among the states in support per pupil.

The education officials recommended federal aid to public schools as a solution to the problem. Two bills proposing the federal aid are pending before congressional committees, both of which are sponsored by Ohio Republicans—Sen. Robert A. Taft and Rep. Edward O. McCowen, Wheelersburg.

MISS MARJORIE SCHMIDT WED TO J. W. HALLMAN

Formal Open Church Nuptials Solemnized At St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church Sunday

IN a formal open church wedding Sunday afternoon at 2:30 Miss Marjorie Alberta Schmidt became the bride of Jacques William Hallman of Shelby. The ceremony, which was attended by many relatives and friends, was performed by Rev. John C. Melchert, at the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Schmidt, 204 South Linden road, and Mr. Hallman's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hallman, 47 North Broadway, Shelby.

A program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. Helen Heston with Miss Naomi Jane Pfaff as soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Schmidt repeated her vows before an altar decorated with palms, ferns and beauty baskets of pastel flowers. Seven branch candelabra illuminated the pretty scene.

For her wedding the bride chose a formal gown of white slipper satin fashioned with a round marquisette yoke, made with slightly off-the-shoulder effect. The full skirt extended into a long wide train and at the waist in the back was a butterfly bow, forming a bustle. She carried a fan-shaped bouquet of shattered white carnations and white roses.

Her only attendant was Mrs. Clyde Bowersock of Ashland, who was attired in a yellow chiffon taffeta gown with a round yoke of marquisette edged with a band of the taffeta, caught up in front with a soft bow. The full skirt extended into a slight train. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations, blue iris and Talisman roses, tied with Talisman bow.

Mrs. Schmidt wore a black street length frock with sequin trim, black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Hallman was attired in a black street length dress with black accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations.

Desmond Richards of Shelby, close friend of the bridegroom, and Edwin R. Schmidt, brother of the bride, escorted the guests to their pews. Serving as best man was Bert Dean Hallman of Shelby, brother of the bridegroom.

Following the nuptials a reception was held in the church parlors for 125 guests. Beauty baskets and vases of pastel flowers, palms and ferns decorated the rooms.

Later in the day the couple left for a trip to Chicago. For traveling the bride wore a cocoa brown suit with white accessories, fur topper and a corsage of white roses. Upon their return they will reside at 11 West First street.

The bride and groom are employed at the M. O'Neil company. She was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and Mr. Hallman from the Shelby high school. He is a navy veteran, who served in the south seas.

Husted-Kelley Nuptials Revealed At Sky Club Announcement Tea

FRIENDS of Miss Mabel Husted, 255 Marion avenue, learned Sunday afternoon, at an attractively appointed tea, of her marriage to Paul L. Kelley, city auditor, 379 Springmill street. Nuptial vows were exchanged July 3, 1947, in the parsonage of the First Methodist church, Ashland, Ky., by Rev. M. A. Peters. The couple was unattended for the single ring service.

For her wedding the bride wore a white suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses and blue delphinium. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Husted, Warsaw, Ohio, and Mr. Kelley is the son of Mrs. Ola Kelley, 379 Springmill street.

The announcement was made when Miss Betty Pifer of Ashland discovered the names and date on her favor, a shell ashtray daintily decorated with pastel shell flowers. Each guest received a shell favor, made by Mrs. Husted, mother of the bride. Hostess for the party was Mrs. Robert Rogers.

Presiding at the serving table were Mrs. Lawrence Husted of Warsaw, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Warren Fort. The centerpiece was a lovely spring arrangement of jonquils and greenery.

Out-of-town guests in attendance were Mrs. Husted, Mrs. Clyde Darr, Mrs. Franklin Fisher, Mrs. David Mowery and Miss Glada Welker, all of Warsaw.

Mrs. Kelley was graduated from Mansfield General hospital School of Nursing and took post-graduate work at Ann Arbor, Mich. She is employed at the Mansfield Health department.

Joann Cowger Feted With Nuptial Party

Graduating class friends of Miss Joann Cowger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Cowger, 312½ South Main street, honored her with a wedding shower last week at the home of Miss Alice Schnuerer, 383 North Mulberry street. Miss Cowger is to be married March 14 at the Mayflower Congregational church to Eugene Hunter, son of A. A. Hunter, Leechburg, Pa.

Miss Schnuerer was co-hostess with Miss Frances Welsh. All guests were members of the June, 1947, graduating class of Senior high school and co-workers with Miss Cowger in the office at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

The evening was spent making a bride's book for Miss Cowger followed by refreshments and gift presentations. Yellow and blue were the colors used to decorate the refreshment table. The placecards were in the form of yellow and blue sprinkling cans. The centerpiece consisted of a cake decorated with yellow roses and the words "Joann and Gene" written on it.

Miss Cowger's gifts were attached with ribbons to the spout of a large yellow and blue sprinkling can. The hostesses presented her with a comfort.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE FOUR MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1948

Big event of the week is the $100-a-plate dinner in Washington at which opulent Democrats will honor Jefferson and Jackson—and probably also deplore the high prices which folks back home are required to pay for their food . . . with a special kindly thought for veterans who can't find a place to live.

Open Meeting on City Water Supply

MANSFIELD'S critical water supply situation is to be made a matter for public discussion at a meeting called by Mayor Roy W. Vaughn, to be held in the municipal court room at city hall tomorrow evening.

While there has been realization that subterranean sources were becoming insufficient to meet increasing needs for water, the seriousness of the situation, as it has been revealed within the past few days, has not been generally known.

Requested conservation of water has apparently become more than a matter of considering family convenience or industrial needs. It is now a community emergency which everyone is obligated to recognize and aid in overcoming. Special care in avoidance of fires is also a part of the water-conserving measures which should not be overlooked.

McGregor Feeling Public Pulse

THE COMMENDABLE desire of Congressman J. Harry McGregor, of this 17th Ohio district, to keep in touch with the thinking of the "folks back home," is seen in the questionnaires that have been received by a number of Mansfielders, and, presumably, by other persons throughout the district.

Questions on which Mr. McGregor asks an expression of opinion cover a vast range of subjects on which legislation is proposed, such as the Marshall Plan; the Taft-Hartley Law; federal aid to schools; federal control of medical and dental professions and operation of hospitals; price, wage and rent control; increase in minimum wages, etc.

This form of questionnaire, together with Congressman McGregor's personal contact with the "home folks" through meetings he is accustomed to hold in various counties, tends to keep him informed on the trend of thinking among people he has been chosen to represent in Washington, and, as he says in the concluding paragraph of a letter accompanying the questionnaire: "I always welcome your comments and trust you will write me any time I can be of service."

Proper address is: "Hon. J. Harry McGregor, M. C., 1434 House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Protected Gambling Arouses Suspicion

EXTENT to which a suspicion of political "influence" on the local commercialized gambling situation ran through the expression of views on this subject as presented in the "Citizens' Forum" in yesterday's News-Journal, provides an illuminating sidelight on persistent rumors that "higher-ups" direct administration attitude toward illegal gambling operations, rather than the head of the police department.

Always, in conversation, there is the coupling of a name —or names—with one or all of the gambling rackets while they are permitted to operate without police interference, and various interpretations are given to such clamp-down procedure as is now being experienced.

Insofar as surface indications are concerned, this appears to be an honest effort on the part of the city police department and the sheriff's office to permanently ban commercialized gambling from Mansfield and Richland county—suspicions to the contrary notwithstanding.

Four Doctors Pass Fifty-Year Mark

FOR THOSE of us who remember them as comparatively young doctors, there is something of shock in the realization that a quartet of Mansfield physicians have reached—or passed—the half century mark in their practice of medicine and surgery.

The history of Mansfield finds many noteworthy names recorded among doctors who have served this community and there is confident belief that the younger generation of medical men who have come along to fill the ranks will measure up to the standards set by older practitioners and by those whose names still live in memory.

It was fitting recognition that associates gave last Friday evening to the four whose professional careers have covered fifty years or more—Dr. John L. Stevens, Dr. Robert R. Black, Dr. J. M. Garber and Dr. J. A. Yoder.

Medicine and surgery have made marvellous advances since these men first entered practice, but it is a noteworthy trait of a great majority of those who engage in this profession to continue to learn throughout their lives—so that by reading, study and observation, they gain knowledge of whatever developments or discoveries may add to the efficiency of their service.

It will be the sincere hope of many that additional years of activity will be permitted those who have already served through five decades—but their doctor would probably tell each of them that it is time for easing up a little and for giving more attention to their own health than they have sometimes done when the welfare of their patients was first in their thoughts.

Scientific study reveals that porpoises are very intelligent —which, the Kansas City Star assumes, "places them out of reach for one of those $10,000 a year government jobs."

Older readers will recall that such words as "plummet," "plunge" and "debacle" are not new ones—they are merely being resurrected for use in current market reports.

After seeing some of Georgia's Ku Klux Klan members unmasked, it is being noted that the mask makes considerable improvement in their appearance.

Claude Callan reminds: "There is no harm in writing a letter while angry, provided you take the precaution to burn it before mailing it."

Washington Calling

Action Stymied By Divided Authority

By MARQUIS CHILDS

NOW that the clamor of politics grows louder and louder, it might be well to stop for just a moment and look at the fundamental fault that bedevils everything the government undertakes. In that connection let's look back at a significant date.

On Nov. 5, 1946, the American voters, exercising their inalienable right, elected Republican majorities in both the Senate and the House. Clearly this was a profound change after fourteen years of Democratic rule.

But the way in which this change would work to complicate and slow down every act of government was scarcely realized at the time, except by a few.

On Nov. 6, Sen. J. William Fulbright, Democrat, of Arkansas was asked to comment on the outcome of the elections which had displaced his party in the Congress. He replied by suggesting that President Truman should resign so that a Republican might take his place and thereby restore harmony and the possibility of decisiveness to the government.

Fulbright is a student of government with a thorough knowledge of how the American system works and how it doesn't work. He can have had little or no expectation that the President would follow his advice. But he chose this means of dramatizing the stalemate that he could already see on the 1947 horizon.

For his pains he was generally abused. His suggestion was taken as impugning Mr. Truman's courage. Within his own party there was a tendency to ostracize him. And Mr. Truman took the occasion of a Gridiron dinner to rap Sen. Fulbright on the knuckles for his audacity.

In the light of what has happened since then, this reaction seems a little silly. How much more courage it would have taken for Mr. Truman to step down, recognizing the inherent flaw in our system of divided powers. He would thereby have created a precedent which could have had the most far-reaching influence on American development.

The President would have made a place for himself in history such as few presidents occupy. As things are going today, his record will not be the brightest in the presidential book.

Even from the point of view of practical politics, the Democrats might now be in a stronger position.

Defect In System.

THE Constitution requires that a presidential election be held every four years. Those dates roll around regardless of war or peace or the imminent threat of war.

It was no accident that Hitler started his war of world conquest on the eve of 1940 and subjugated Europe in the spring of that presidential year. The nazis were convinced we would be so paralyzed by indecision that they could safely ignore us as a factor. And they were very nearly right. You can be sure, too, that the master planners in the Kremlin now know what year it is.

On the average of one out of every three years, the divided powers of our government are split between the two major parties. The result is stalemate, and that is no secret from the rest of the world.

If the European recovery program is approved in a workable form, it will be thanks to two facts that override even the inherent divisiveness of the split government we live under.

First is the fact that a remarkable range of opinion has swung behind the program—opinion so articulate and so representative that it cannot be disregarded. And second is the stature of the two men who have had the most to do with the program—Secretary of State George C. Marshall and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg. But nevertheless there is no guarantee that a workable plan will be adopted.

On other vital policy matters, paralysis or confusion are the rule. Congress and the executive are engaged in trying to blame each other for prices, speculation, and now the commodity decline.

And anyone who thinks the tragedy of Palestine, where so many vital interests are concentrated, will not be exploited in this political year is naive beyond belief. Even on such an elemental matter as tax collection, the two branches fall out, and so this process fundamental to government is impeded. So it goes in every department.

The remedy? A constitutional amendment could cure it by insuring that executive and Congress could not be divided between opposing parties.

Such an amendment would be a major step in the right direction. But the process of amending the Constitution seems, like the gear of a motor long untouched, to have become frozen in disuse.

You sometimes hear talk about "rising above politics." But that is too much to expect from human nature in this political year, and we should realize that the fault is not with the politicians but with a defect in our political system.

Taft In Stassen's State

By THOMAS L. STOKES

ON TOUR With Senator Taft—In the midwest where he finds a receptive audience. Senator Taft of Ohio carries his campaign for a negative, stand-offish sort of foreign policy.

It has a three-fold objective, obviously:

First, to whittle down the Marshall Plan considerably below the requested sum. Second, to promote his own candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, which has its base in and draws sustenance from the middle west.

Third, to shape the Republican party's future foreign policy at the forthcoming Philadelphia convention in June as closely as possible to his own views, which should stir up a great battle that is bound to have a far-reaching influence on his party and on the nation, however it comes out.

In effect, the powerful Ohio senator accepted the challenge thrown down recently by Harold Stassen. The younger aspirant for the nomination, after announcing his decision to enter the primary in Senator Taft's own state for a test on issues, immediately launched upon a campaign, on his own New England tour, on behalf of the internationalist wing of the party.

The object is to put through the Marshall Plan at the figure fixed by the Truman administration. Also, to revise and strengthen the United Nations by doing away with the veto and by making the organization into something approaching an effective world government with a body of substantive law and an international police to enforce its decisions.

Reflects Isolationism.

AFTER listening closely to the Ohio senator's speeches on his tour that includes Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Nebraska and Colorado, the observer is struck most forcibly by the negation of the Taft foreign policy—its frustration, its lack of confidence in our potentials and influence, its am-I-my brother's-keeper plaint.

It makes out the United States to be a timid and hesitant nation, extremely jealous of preserving its own "liberties," instead of using boldly the tremendous power with which those "liberties" endow it to be of help beyond our borders.

This all adds up, of course, to what we once called "isolationism," though Senator Taft seeks to escape the literal label by insisting upon his willingness to do something, and by advocating the implementation of the United Nations by establishing a code of law and justice. He would not, however, abandon the veto, but would retain it to protect our interests.

His message goes well with select audiences largely composed of businessmen and conservative politicians of the midwest, a presently prosperous people and hoping to remain so.

They listen contentedly and seemingly take without question such a statement as the one in his St. Paul speech that the productive facilities of "many" of the countries involved in the Marshall Plan "were hardly injured by war."

He added, "yet they are still dependent on foreign aid," and asked: "is it our fault or theirs?"

Senator Tafts recital of all sorts of difficulties in the way of a "world state," in which he holds up the fear that the United States would be outvoted to the detriment of its freedom, its economic welfare, its trade, and so on, sounds much like the talk heard over a quarter of a century ago from opponents of the League of Nations.

It is an ominous echo across the years.

FDR Feared Separate Nazi-Soviet Peace

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—During the war, mysterious reports leaked out of Stockholm that the Germans and the Russians were holding secret conversations in 1943 with a view to patching up a separate peace.

U. S. military intelligence did its best to get full details of these conversations, and it was known that the talks were held between Nazi Ambassador Hans Thomsen and Soviet Ambassadress Madame Alexandra Kollontay at a villa just outside of Stockholm.

Since the war, however, the U. S. Army has captured the detailed account of these talks, and it can now be revealed that during the summer of 1943, shortly after the battle of Stalingrad, Hitler and Stalin came near patching up a separate peace which would have left the United States and Great Britain fighting the war alone.

The state department has already released the secret talks between Foreign Minister Ribbentrop and Foreign Minister Molotov in November 1940 by which Russia and Germany tried to concoct an alliance, but the documents regarding the second peace attempt in 1943 are still considered confidential.

However, here is the background story of what happened.

Secret Fishing Trip.

IN THE summer of 1943, continued Soviet pressure for a U. S.-British second front across the English Channel finally resulted in a secret conference on Monitoulin Island in Lake Huron. Roosevelt visited the island on an alleged fishing trip, where he was joined by Churchill and later by Molotov, who flew via Siberia and Alaska to the island.

Molotov was extremely bitter. He complained that Allied delay in establishing a second front meant the loss of thousands of Russian lives.

The Red army had suffered terrific punishment at Stalingrad. The German army was still far advanced in the Caucasus. Therefore, Molotov demanded that the American and British armies divert the strength of the nazi military machine by starting a second front at once.

Roosevelt and Churchill replied that to start a second front before the U. S. Army was properly prepared might result in a setback which would prolong the war even longer. They also argued that the Russian general staff had agreed it would be difficult to start an operation across the English Channel at this time.

However, Molotov remained so bitter and so disgruntled that Roosevelt and Churchill were worried. Simultaneously some inkling of the Nazi-Soviet peace talks had trickled back to them.

Attempt to Carve Europe.

IN THESE talks, Russia had proposed that she be given one half of Poland. To this the nazis agreed. It was also proposed that Russia take over Iran and have free access to the Indian Ocean through the Gulf of Persia. To this the nazis also agreed.

Hitler, in turn, wanted to keep Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Greece and Hungary as a part of the German empire. To this the Russians agreed.

However, the conversations broke down on the age-old question of the Dardanelles and Turkey. For more than a century Russia has demanded an outlet to the sea through the Dardanelles. And in the secret peace talks of 1943, the Soviets repeated this traditional demand of the czars.

Hitler, however, refused. Apparently he wanted Germany to reign supreme over the entire Mediterranean. We wanted no Russian influence in Turkey.

When Roosevelt and Churchill received an intimation of these Nazi-Soviet peace talks and realized Molotov's bitterness over failure to start a second front, they sent Cordell Hull and Anthony Eden to Moscow almost immediately.

Hull Flies to Moscow.

IN MOSCOW, Hull and Eden succeeded in smoothing Russian feelings—to some extent. However, Stalin wanted a firm commitment not only as to when the second front would start, but also as to what territory Russia would get after the war—especially in regard to Poland and the Balkans.

He was worried about the Atlantic Charter's protection of the rights of small nations and didn't want to be bound by it. Therefore, Hull and Eden agreed that a meeting of Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill would shortly be held to decide these problems.

This was what led to the Big Three meeting at Teheran.

At Teheran Stalin finally got an agreement regarding the second front—though not until after a tough battle with Churchill.

Finally, Roosevelt, upon the advice of General Marshall, sided with Stalin. The United States was looking at the second front not from a political viewpoint, but only as a means of winning the war quickly.

At Teheran, it was also agreed that Russia would be given a free hand in Bulgaria, Roumania and part of Yugoslavia (which was more than Hitler was willing to give).

Great Britain in turn was to get a sphere of influence in Greece and the Dalmatian coast of Yugoslavia. Finally, it was at Teheran that Stalin persuaded Roosevelt and Churchill that the man for them to back in Yugoslavia was Tito, not his Chetnik rival, Mihailovitch.

The latter decision has been regretted almost ever since. But it should be remembered that Roosevelt and Churchill knew of the secret attempts to make a separate Soviet-Nazi peace and were worried.

Real Meaning of Lent

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THESE are the days of Lent, and those of us who do not know the true, deep meaning of these days may shrug them off . . . call them "religious stuff . . . something to do with Easter."

But Lent has something to do with every day of our lives and the spirit of Lent illumines every fine and friendly act. For the spirit of Lent is sacrifice — the very basis of our civilization.

Lent ends with the supreme sacrifice upon the cross but its purpose molds our every day and deed. Have you ever thought what the world would be without sacrifice? There's a book called "Imperial Purple" by Saltus. In it he tells of the last degenerate days of Rome. Rome was mistress of all the world in that dreadful era when Christians were being torn by lions, gored by bulls or burned as torches to light mad Nero's sports.

Men thought little of sacrifice in those horrible times. Power was all that mattered . . . power coupled with ingenious and revolting cruelties.

AND THEN AT BETHLEHEM A LITTLE CHILD WAS BORN WHOSE WHOLE LIFE WAS TO BE A SACRIFICE FOR LOVE.

His people were Rome's captives and everywhere He saw the fruit of hate and greed . . . but scarcely anywhere the fruit of love. Yet, although penniless and obscure, Christ dared to face and fight the foul corruption of his day. And while great Rome sank struggling in her own dark rottenness, Christ's cult of love and sacrifice arose and spread until today it lights the whole sad world and is our greatest hope of peace.

SACRIFICE. It was the keystone of Christ's creed. To live and love and share in friendliness —this was the simple truth he taught his followers. And yet, despite its simple beauty, it was dangerous.

A man might die who preached such doctrine to a blood stained land. A man did die upon the hill shaped like a skull. Yet, though His body died, his truth went marching on. For those who had found the joy that sacrifice can bring were quick to pass it on and those who found that love is sweeter far than hate, they too worked in a new found happiness. Until at last millions who'd lived as slaves walked free and glad within a kinder law.

And that's why we have Lent. It's not because the calendar revolves and brings us to this certain day. It's not because the church has set this time aside for mourning or religious rites.

IT IS JUST BECAUSE THE WHOLE WORLD HAS COME TO KNOW THE BEAUTY AND POWER AND JOY OF SACRIFICE.

"It's better to give than to receive" . . . "He who would save his life must lose it" . . . never were truer words spoken. And that applies to the smallest act as well as to the largest. Whether you are knitting a ski sweater for a beloved child or patching a shirt for your man or sacrificing some pleasure for another's happiness, the motive of Lent carries on, the force dedicated to love and unselfishness which at last begins to heal a war sick world that once know only the power of greed and hate.

As Cerf Tells It

A society moneybags asked a prominent copy writer to lay out a publicity campaign for one of her pet charities. He prepared an elaborate prospectus and told her the cost would be a thousand dollars a month. "Ridiculous," declared the wealthy lady. "All you've done is string some words together in a certain way."

"Exactly," agreed the writer, handing her a dictionary. "Take this home and try it yourself."

Farmer's Diary

Treasure of the Snow

By CALVIN A. BYERS

SNUG winter came down upon us nearly five weeks ago. Since then the clear stream of Honey creek is frozen deep and in many places the quiet hollows are filled with drifts of snow. The expanse of swamp and lowland pasture is like a level white sheet unbroken by any human path.

The surface of the slope is marked by occasional canes of goldenrod and aster stalks. The treeless hills beyond the woods appear no whiter than the mists of the northern sky, so that I cannot determine where the summit ends and the sky begins.

But cold as zero mornings were, I found delight in exploring the wintry changes of the immediate landscape. High above the roadside bank I noticed a cavern made by the drifting snow during the night. I climbed the snowy bank and stood amazed at such strange artistry.

I drew nearer and thrust my head and shoulders far inside while resting my weight upon my hands which were on the floor. The chilly dampness that enclosed me was like nothing normal in this living world. Dainty pillars were formed here as round and smooth as whitest marble, but reflecting the light like diamonds. The generous overhanging roof had a delicate fringe of frost crystals so fragile that a breath could destroy the icy film.

Morning light increased and brought greater sparkle to this strange wonder. The myriad reflections grew more animated with each passing moment. Instead of quiet light the whole interior of the cavern glowed and twinkled, as if ten thousand mirrors were placed at strategic angles.

Here was a palace made without hands, marked by natural sculpture, and set on fire by the glow of morning light. I stepped aside in silent reverence, and then experienced a grander, keener light which though I shivered, I knew was too beautiful to let pass.

In that quiet moment I repeated audibly the mystic words that God asked his suffering servant, Job, "Hast thou entered into the treasure of the snow?"

Comfortably warm again, beside my own hearth, in my mind's eye I keep returning to the wonder of that cave near the summit of the road bank. Even when spring flowers bloom upon this place, and south winds blow and grass is green and tender, I shall still remember with awe the rude winter time and the spangled beauty of that snowy cavern.

Water Job Delay Due To Weather

Clear Fork Project Far From Completion

farm will be the site of the high lift pumping station designed to pump water first from the present wells, and eventually from the Clear Fork lake, to the Woodland reservoir.

Condemnation proceedings for the Shaffer farm are scheduled for hearing in common pleas court on Feb. 17, at which time the jury will set a price on the property. The city has offered $4,000 but the owners are asking $15,000.

Bids are now being asked on the pumping station and they will be opened on March 9.

When the work is completed on the new pumping station and the 24-inch pipeline, much of the load will be taken off the present facilities consisting of the Maxwell pumping station and 12 and 14-inch pipe lines which feed the Woodland reservoir.

BOOST LINE CAPACITY

Engineers explained that one 24-inch pipe can carry more water than a 12 and 14 inch line combined, though the combined diameters are greater.

With the new pumping station bearing part of the load carried by the Maxwell pumping station, and the new line carrying part of the water, the Mansfield water supply will increase by 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 gallons daily.

It is hoped that the work on the pumping station and the pipe line will be completed sometime this year.

City officials said that though they would like to get the whole project completed as soon as possible, their immediate objective is to finish the pipe line, and construct the pumping station so that the city can be protected against any serious shortage.

FACILITIES NEEDED

Before a single drop of water can be used from the Clear Fork reservoir, however, a filtration plant, a low lift pumping station from the dam to the highlift pumping station and a raw water pipeline must be built.

This part of the project is still in the "proposal" stage. Because of the current high cost of construction, Carl Walker, consulting engineer, advised the city last year to get along temporarily with the added water supplied by the pipe line and pumping station and wait until construction costs come down before going to work on the rest of the project.

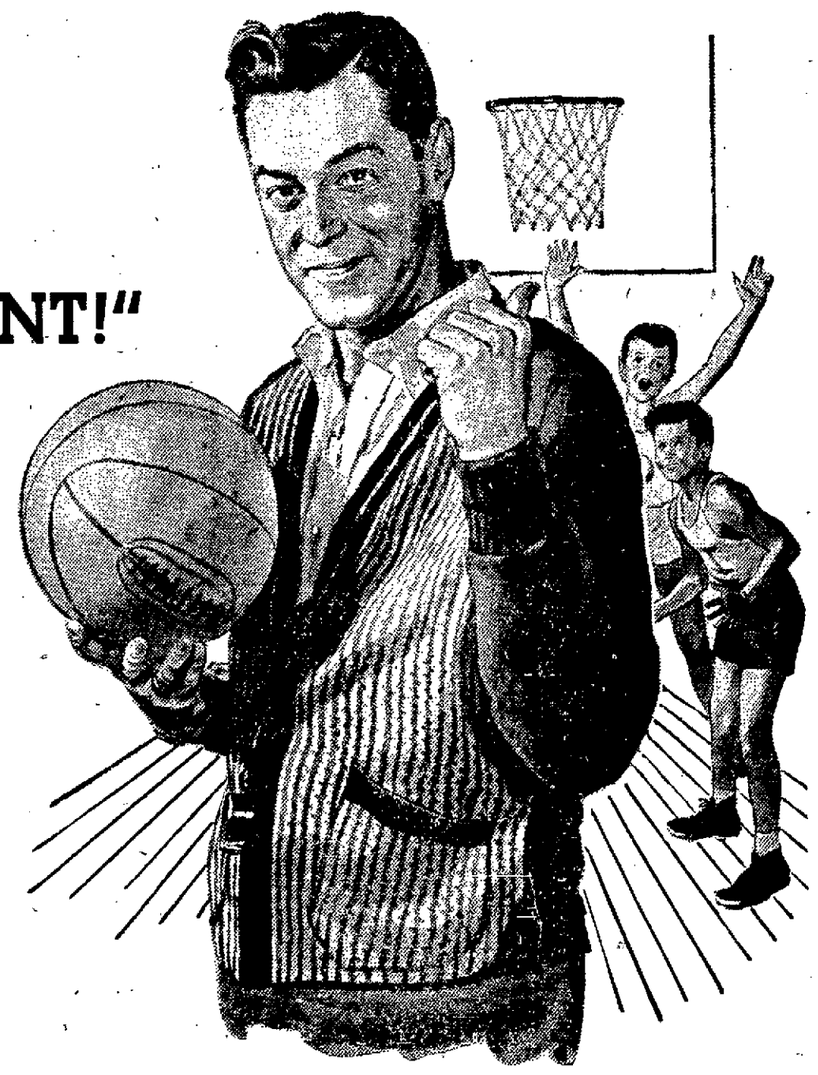
"What this country amounts to depends on what happens to its homes."... That's why the life insurance companies and their agents are bringing you this series of messages from the nation's foremost authorities, to help you plan for happiness in the handling of your family money. (This is Message No. 30.)

"My biggest job DOESN'T PAY A CENT!"



Any city can be made a still better place to live in if its citizens say: "Let's do something about it!" This stimulating article tells how to start

by RALPH H. BLANCHARD
Executive Director, Community Chests and Councils

Ralph H. Blanchard

IT'S easy to complain how bad things are in our city. But who's to blame? Many times, only ourselves!

A city is just a big group of families. Its schools and its parks, its hospitals and its libraries, its concert halls and its playgrounds will be no better, in the long run, than we are willing to support. Even a few determined men and women can do wonders . . .

Take the case of the family I'll call the Martins. Ted Martin had read item after item about school kids getting into trouble. Ted didn't like that sort of thing in the city where he was raising a son. And when he read one more story of a school boy in a jam, he exploded.

"Confound it," he roared, "why doesn't somebody do something about this? Why aren't these kids kept busy at decent things?"

Son Jimmy said, "There is a boys' clubhouse, Dad. But it's dying on its feet, because it can't find enough grown-up leaders to teach the sports and hobbies that the fellows want."

Ted thought it over. Next day, he went out to the Clubhouse, had a talk with the director. And, almost before he knew it, found himself volunteer coach of the basketball team.

HOW CAN YOU HELP?

Opportunities are everywhere! Watch your newspaper. Ask friends at church, school or club. Here are some typical projects:

Youth centers	Community Chest drives
Scouts, "Y's"	Day nurseries
Citizenship classes	Civic auditorium
Clean-up campaign	Slum clearance
New library branch	More playgrounds
Better schools	Hobby classes

Night of the first game, Ted simply glowed with pride. He had uncovered a vital new interest in life. He had found scores of new friends. And he knew that he was making the city a better place for his own children to grow up in.

Try it in your city! Unselfish interests outside the home give the family a new bond within the home. There's a sense of real accomplishment that all share in.

Of course, you can't go all-out for every community activity. But, with planning, you can often contribute time or money that will give some needed project a boost. Every family should earmark a definite part of its income—even if it's only a little—for such purposes. Then, when your help is needed, you can give with an open heart!

Think of community work as bringing a double advantage to your family: it makes your city a better place for you to live in . . . and it unites your family in an adventure that's really big!

How to PLAN for Family Happiness

● Budgeting can help you contribute money to community projects. But that's only part of sound money planning. You'll be more likely to have enough money on hand when you need it, if you'll follow these few simple rules:

FOR TODAY . . . The first thing, for most families, is to take care of the larger fixed items such as rent, taxes, insurance, mortgage and installment payments, etc. So start by adding up all your fixed items for the year, divide by 52, and set aside that amount weekly.

Also every family should have a "rainy day" fund equal to at least four weeks' income. Set aside a little every week until you have that much. Then, you'll know how much you can spend for food, clothing, heat, light, amusements, and so forth.

FOR TOMORROW . . . We live in a changing world. Family needs and circumstances change . . . living costs . . . taxes. If you have not had your life insurance program reviewed lately, the chances are 2 to 1 that it should be brought up to date.

There are so many ways in which you can use your life insurance, that you should have the life insurance you now own checked to see if it is suited to your needs. This is a service that comes with your life insurance.

The person best equipped to help you with this is the well-trained life insurance agent. Get in touch with your agent, or write your life insurance company. INSTITUTE OF LIFE INSURANCE, 60 East 42nd Street, New York 17, N. Y.

Technicians Labor Hard For Little Glory

Behind-Scenes Workers Help Put Plays Over

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Look closely at the program they hand you for the Community Players' "Ten Little Indians" next week. Down in the small print at the bottom, you'll find the names of some of the hardest workers on the play.

They'll be the stage technicians who put in almost as many hours as the actors and who, unfortunately, generally receive little or no glory.

Most of them aren't concerned with the glamour. The fun they get out of stretching muslin, nailing flats and daubing paint on canvas is their pay. If scene paint ruins a perfectly good manicure or a shirt—it's all a part of the show.

And these troupers who never set foot on the stage opening night or snatch a last look at the script before "going on" are just as excited as any leading character at the whoosh of the curtain.

For three weeks now, the stage crew for "Ten Little Indians" has been meeting faithfully three nights a week at the armory to work on the set. They have only a few days now to put on the finishing touches for dress rehearsal. Even the opening night of the show, Feb. 24, they might be called in for emergencies.

PROUD OF WORKERS

Walter Perl, technical director for the Players' second production of the season, is proud of his "gang."

"They're doing a swell job on the set," Perl said, himself a bit smeared with paint.

The job's been what Perl calls a "tough one." Setting for the spine-tingling murder mystery is an English country house, which calls for paneling, just-right shading and a quiet austerity to fit with the mood.

But there was no "starting from scratch" for "Ten Little Indians." Every stage crew worker had a good idea of what the finished product was going to look like before a two-by-four was sawed. Perl's model set and extensive plans did the trick.

From there on it was easy. Two-by-fours were sawed into measured lengths, which promptly became flat forms, muslin was stretched and glued and the painters were soon at work.

This week, the cast of the play will practice on the set at the Armory. This will afford both Perl and H. H. Schettler, play director, a chance to coordinate the setting with the action and to catch any last minute changes.

Helping Perl are 15 willing workers who give up Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings for the paint brushes and hammers. Among these are Rex Collins, who started his stage work in Senior high school, and Miss Maurine Beal, member of the board of governors of the Players and veteran worker. Both are assistants to Perl.

Other crew members, whose work will certainly be noticed Feb. 24, are Murylnne Gass, Marjorie Woodard, Andy Marocchi, Charles Wolfgang, Don Burger, Charles Brown, Rita Fisher, Joe Mayer, Norma Leppert, Betty McGregor, Frank Stumbo and Howard Clark.

HAMMER ARTISTS — Typical of the Mansfield Community Players who never set foot on a stage nor apply the grease paint on opening night are these "back of the scenes" folk who put in as many hours as the actors in preparation for a Players' production. Here a few of the 15 "steady" and three-night-a-week workers are shown as they put the finishing touches to the "Ten Little Indians" set, which will be seen at John Simpson auditorium opening night of the show, Feb. 24. At top, Walter Perl, technical director for the production, lends a hand and a bucket of paint to the efforts of the comely stage workers, Murylnne Gass, left, and Marjorie Woodard. Below, the "heavy" work is taken over by the masculine crew, shown setting up a "flat" section. Andy Marrochi and Chuck Wolfgang tend to the hammer work in foreground while Don Burger and Charles Brown hang the doors into the lashed section. (News-Journal photos by George Petrovic).

Another Chapter Added To Story Of Babe Ruth, Great American

I DESIRE to supplement an important historical document, the life story of Babe Ruth, a great American, which has been written for printing and moving pictures by Bob Considine.

The Babe came to New York from the Boston Red Sox in 1919. He had hit an extraordinary number of home runs—19, as I recall—in the 1919 season.

In the early part of the 1920 season, perhaps about May, Fred Ferguson, then the manager of an affair called the United News, had one of his ideas and went to Philadelphia to proposition Ruth.

He found the Babe and a half dozen other Yankees on their knees in a room playing a game that is played with dice.

Mr. Ferguson observed that the only way he could hope to get close to the Babe was to get into the crap game. He went crazy and cleaned out the crap-game, and, with the prestige thus acquired, was able to impress the Babe with his importance and acumen. He made a contract assuring the Babe $1,000 for the season and $5 each for his home runs, and containing a reserve clause binding him to cover the World Series for us, in person.

The Babe's public was expanding and I was assigned to catch the Yankees in St. Louis, interview him exhaustively for his life story, and rush back to New York to put it into deathless prose. I waylaid him in the lobby every night and tried to mousetrap him.

I wheedled with Ping Bodie, his roommate. But he never came home and just appeared at and disappeared from the ball-park every day. On the Saturday night we went up to Chicago, but he played cards all night. On the Sunday morning, he went to mass and then played sandlot ball with a lot of kids until about noon.

I then had fifteen minutes with him and went back to New York where George Buchanan Fife, of the Evening World, and I produced 80,000 words, some of them very good, in four days, turn and turn-about. We got nothing extra, but I believe the Babe got $500.

The Dodgers and the Indians played the world series and Mr. Ferguson asked Ruth whether he was going to show up to cover the games. He wasn't acting as though he intended to.

He wasn't. He had an offer of $1,000 to go barnstorming and he defied Mr. Ferguson to sue him. So Sidney Whipple was assigned to go with him and the great essays on the strategy of the 1920 world series by Babe Ruth were written from Perth Amboy, Camden, Scranton and such points and not a bit the worse for that.

Police Seek Youth In 2 Attacks

Small Boys Sent On Fake Errands

Police today sought a boy about 15 years old who is believed to have molested two smaller boys during the past 10 days after sending them on errands.

Latest report of the youth's activities came from Mrs. Gladys Taylor, 506 Springmill street, who told police her son, Jimmy, was attacked late Saturday on West Luther Place behind the First Lutheran church.

She said an older boy told her son at the Park theater that he could earn a dollar by going to the Ohio theater to pick up a note. The same boy attacked Jimmy later, she said, taking bus tokens, a nail clipper, and other items.

A similar attack occurred Feb. 6 when a 13-year-old boy was accosted behind the Madison theater after being sent on an errand.

Red Cross Drive Opens

Rural Workers Set For Annual Campaign

Beginning with a luncheon at Lexington today and another at Shiloh, tomorrow, Richland county volunteer workers will begin their part of the annual Red Cross drive.

The quota for the county is $6,100. More than 200 workers are expected to contact every farmhouse in the county toward reaching this goal.

In the southern part of the county, Mrs. John Newcomer heads a group of volunteers who have been "briefed" in meetings for the past two weeks and who received their supplies today for the opening of the county drive.

Tomorrow, Mrs. Dewey Reynolds will give last minute instructions to her corps of volunteers in the northern part of the county. The meeting tomorrow will be held in the American Legion home at Shiloh.

Although the city campaign does not open until March 1, it was thought wise to start the county share of the drive this week because of the condition of country roads.

2 Sentenced To Ohio Pen

Sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary today in common pleas court were Walter Lyle Burton, 33, of 224 North Diamond street, for receiving stolen goods, and Clarence Black, 57, of 184½ North Main street, for carrying concealed weapons.

Requests of both men for rehearings were turned down by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch. Burton was given a one-to-seven-year sentence and Black, one to three years.

Burton was arrested Oct. 24 carrying a load of musical instruments, which police said, had been stolen from the Thomas Music shop. Persons to whom Burton tried to sell the instruments said Burton told them the goods was "hot."

Black, acquitted last year of a manslaughter charge in the stabbing death of Richard Jones, Demo club bartender, was apprehended by police, Dec. 13, on complaints that he was carrying an open knife. The knife was introduced as evidence at the trial.

Attorney Robert W. Lett represented both Burton and Black. County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz handled the state's case against Black, and Lutz and Assistant Prosecutor Claude F. Ewing represented the state in Burton's case.

Truman Asks Help

NEW YORK—(AP)—President Truman, appealing to mayors of 250 American cities to back his anti-inflation program, says unless the rise in the cost of living is checked permanently, "the living standards of millions of families will be critically endangered."

In a message yesterday to the United States Conference of Mayors, opening here today, the President urged Congress to curb inflation and enact a long-range housing bill.

"The sharp rise in the cost of living index points to the undermining of our whole economy," the President's message said. He added that "immediate steps must also be taken to increase the nation's supply of low-cost housing. The enactment of a broad long-range housing bill is long overdue."

He also asked more aid for schools and colleges, saying "we must devise types of education that will prepare them (the children) more effectively than in the past for responsible roles in modern society."

Farmers' Institutes Losing to Science

By GEORGE COMINOS

Fading of Farmers' Institutes from the Richland county rural scene has been blamed on many things. Actually, the answer is better communication facilities, County Agent George B. Ganyard believes.

Only two institutes are scheduled in the county this winter. There was one at Adario two weeks ago with a big attendance. The other will be the Mifflin-Franklin-Weller Institute scheduled to open Feb. 27.

Institutes were an important part of the rural scene a few years ago with nearly every community holding sessions that lasted two or three days. Richland county had 10 institutes in 1933.

With the farmer getting his information from newspapers, county agents, extension agents, the radio, and agriculture department literature, there is less need for a meeting place to distribute the latest data on farming, Ganyard said.

An Ohio State university bulletin also lists the following factors as having helped push the institutes out of the picture: automobiles, picture shows, hard roads, electric power, and farm tractors.

Figures especially point out the decline of Farmers' Institutes through the years. In the winter of 1946-47 there were 377 institutes held in the state, compared to 678 during the winter of 1937-38.

OBJECTIVE CHANGES

Even the purpose of the Farmers' Institutes has been changed to keep pace with the times.

Before 1943 the purpose was stated as "To teach improved methods of farming, stock raising, fruit culture and business connected with agriculture." Now the purpose reads: "To improve farming, home-making and community life."

County Agent Ganyard explained that today there are too many distractions for the farm populace. He explained farmers, before radio, did not hear many speeches, so went to the Farmers' Institutes.

Now it's difficult to obtain speakers of a caliber who could attract a big crowd to an institute, he said.

Ganyard said that a revival of Farmers' Institutes "depends on community leadership." He pointed out that the purpose of institutes "must be changed to keep pace with the times."

Couple Files $50,000 Suit

A $50,000 joint damage suit was filed in common pleas court today against Clarence E. Williams, executor and trustee of the estate of Frank Williams of the Williams Transfer and Storage company, and George D. Kistler of Shelby.

Plaintiffs in the suit, George Johnson, 284 Greenlawn avenue, and his wife, Eileen Johnson, seek restitution for personal injuries Mrs. Johnson allegedly suffered in a collision with a company truck on Sept. 11 on U. S. Route 30.

Mrs. Johnson, who seeks $15,000, contends she suffered permanent injuries when the transfer truck, driven by Kistler, collided with the car in which she was riding Johnson, asking $35,000, said the injuries his wife suffered will prohibit her from normal activity and that treatment for the injuries is not yet completed.

Delegate Strength Growing

Six-State Tour 'Encouraging'

By WILLIAM THEIS

CHICAGO—(INS)—Supporters of Senator Robert A. Taft, Ohio, claimed today that he is leading the field of Republican presidential candidates in potential delegate strength.

They estimated at the close of his western "Lincoln week" tour that Taft would win more than 100 of the 163 convention delegates from the six states he visited.

Nationally, considering the Ohioan's southern support, they believe there is more delegate strength leaning toward Taft than toward Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

'ENCOURAGING'

Taft himself wound up his trip saying that he found the outlook "extremely encouraging" in the states he entered—Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa and Colorado. But he declined to make any delegate claims.

Pro-Taft people look for the Senate leader to go into the June Republican convention with more than 100 delegate votes from the south. The two estimates would credit him with more than 200 votes outside of Ohio's 53 and any support he may have from such key states as Pennsylvania.

Taft headed toward Washington, D. C., from Denver after announcing that he would speak in five other states—Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Maine and Missouri—before the weathervane April 13 Nebraska primary.

GIVES ITINERARY

Taft gave this itinerary:

Feb. 23 at Detroit, Feb. 28-29 at Cleveland; March 9 at Philadelphia; March 14-15 at Portland, Maine; March 20 at Middletown, O.; April 3 at St. Charles, Mo., and April 10 at Cleveland.

He said he had no present plan to appear personally again in Nebraska before that state's preferential primary. But it was understood that if Taft's Nebraska campaign managers decide it is needed, he will take time out to speak there again before April 13.

Nebraska is one of the big question marks in Taft's pre-convention campaign. His lieutenants are confident he will have most of the state's 15 delegates. But they concede this depends upon the "popularity contest" primary in which Dewey and former Minnesota Gov. Harold E. Stassen will be his principal opponents.

Morningstar Named Head of New Grid Loop

1949 Debut Planned For Seven Teams

Augie Morningstar, head coach and athletic director of Mansfield high, yesterday was named president of the new Northern Ohio Athletic league composed of Mansfield, Massillon, Canton McKinley, Allinace, Warren, Stubenville, and Waite of Toledo.

The new group will not begin to function until the fall of 1949, under present plans, with tentative schedules being drawn for the opening year of the new league.

According to Morningstar, coaches of the teams in the proposed league, have been asked to check their present schedules and for 1949 to determine if the new league games can be worked in without too much trouble. Coaches and faculty managers will report their findings at the next meeting of the group.

"It looks like a tough league, but a good one for all of us," Coach Morningstar said this morning. "All the seven members have good stadiums and usually put good teams on the field. We have a lot of work to do to complete details, and it's a long way from a finished league."

"When we do get through, we feel we'll have one of the best high school conferences in the nation. If we can work out another league in southern Ohio, we'd have a natural for a post-season state championship game. We are working on that right now.

"We'll try and play five league games each, but there are some problems on that, especially at Waite. Under present plans we'll use a rotating schedule. Waite already has five city games on its annual schedule and the five league games would give Waite a mighty rugged slate each year.

"But everyone seems enthusiastic about the whole thing and we don't see how it can miss with such cooperation. It looks mighty good right now."

The seven teams lined up are among the top teams in this section of the country and the league looms as a powerful unit. The organization has the official blessing of H. W. Emmiwiler, Ohio High School Athletic commissioner, who telegraphed his sanction to the organizational meeting at Canton yesterday.

The league also has the approval of school boards in six of the seven cities involved. Steubenville officials have protested the playing of five league games a year, and athletic leaders there are certain they will be unable to play a complete league card in 1949, but the rest of the league plans to start anyway.

Steubenville will work in as many league games as possible.

Barberton had been mentioned as a member of the league, but sports heads there declined to join and as a result Waite high was invited to align itself with the circuit.

Other officers elected yesterday are Heinie Beck of Warren as vice president and Howard Brinker of Steubenville as secretary-treasurer. R. T. (Ike) Heise, faculty manager at Massillon, will be the publicity director.

The working out of the southern group is planned for next Sunday, in a meeting at Columbus, with hopes that Hamilton, Portsmouth, Springfield, and Middletown will form the nucleus for the group.

Should the league be organized, then the championship game between the leaders in the two leagues would be considered a state title game.

36,740 to Roll In Pin Tourney

DETROIT—(AP)—A record 36,740 bowlers will shoot for $525,000 when the 1948 American Bowling Congress opens here March 11.

Grank G. Mitzel, tournament manager, said today the 45th annual championships would run for a record 80 days on 40 specially constructed lanes at the Michigan Fair Grounds coliseum.

Mitzel said every AEC entry-record was smashed in the unprecedented wave of applications.

The 7,348 five-man team entry eclipses the previous high of 6,073 when Detroit last staged the big indoor show in 1940; 14,006 doubles combinations exceeds the 1946 high of 12,780 at Buffalo, and the singles list of 27,951 tops Buffalo's mark of 25,567.

The fight originally was scheduled for tomorrow night but was set back when the Brooklyn Belter suffered a cut nose.

Detroit's Cecil Hudson is a 7-5 choice to whip Clevelander Chuck Hunter in a 10-heat semifinal.

Three Games To Wind Up Cage Circuit

SHELBY — The Northern Ohio league schedule will wind up this week with three loop games scheduled for Friday night.

Bellevue, whose latest victim was Crestline, 42-35, won the league championship undefeated with seven straight victories. The Redmen also defeated Upper Sandusky, 31-28; Willard, 57-35; Norwalk, 42-40; Galion, 43-37; Shelby, 65-45; and Bucyrus, 54-50, in league games. The Huron county school has won 11 of 15 games this season.

Bellevue has totaled 333 points to 270 for its opponents in winning its third NOL title. Bellevue also won the title in 1943-44 and 1944-45.

Friday night, the schedule sends Bucyrus to Upper Sandusky, Galion to Willard and Crestline to Shelby. In a non-league game, Bellevue plays at Norwalk.

Four non-league contests scheduled Tuesday night take Elyria to Bellevue, Bucyrus to Marion Harding, Mt. Gilead to Crestline and Ashland to Shelby.

On Feb. 27, Marion Harding plays at Bellevue, Norwalk at Mansfield and Shelby meets Sandusky.

Four NOL schools, Shelby, Bellevue, Willard and Norwalk, play in the Sandusky tournament. The other four teams, Bucyrus, Galion, Upper Sandusky and Crestline, take part in the Findlay tournament for which the drawings will be made next Saturday.

The standings:

	W	L	Pts	Opp
Bellevue	7	0	333	270
Bucyrus	4	2	320	256
Norwalk	4	3	353	279
Shelby	3	3	249	274
Willard	2	4	247	328
Crestline	2	4	242	241
Upper Sandusky	2	4	241	255
Galion	1	5	240	278

Buckeyes Set For Wisconsin

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Ohio State's giant-killers take on league-leading Wisconsin tonight in a Western conference game and the Badgers should be wary.

Ohio State put the Badgers in their present lofty position and would just as soon knock them out of it.

Two weeks ago at the Coliseum Ohio State upset Michigan to knock the Wolverines out of the Big Nine lead and put the Badgers in.

Tonight, with the Badgers leading at 6-2 and Michigan right behind with 5-2, the Buckeyes could perform the same service in reverse.

Coach Tippy Dye of Ohio seemed to have called the turn correctly on the Buckeyes at the beginning of the season when he said:

"We may not win the championship but we're going to give some of the teams that figure to be up there a large collective headache."

In addition to knocking off Michigan, Ohio State sent Illinois' faded hopes for a championship glimmering Saturday night as the Bucks put the Illini out of the race with a 57-50 triumph.

The Saturday victory pulled the Bucks out of the conference cellar with three victories in nine games and avenged an earlier 61-58 setback at Illinois. It was the fifth loss in conference play for the Illini and put them completely out of the race.

Dick Schnittker's seven goals in 21 shots and eight free throws Saturday night boosted his season's total points to 243, 26 off Jimmy Hull's all-time Ohio State record of 269.

Lima Bombers Lead

LIMA —(INS)— The Corriganfuneral home team of Lakewood rolled its way into early leadership of the state Elks' bowling tournament here with a 2976 team total.

Merrill May and T. D. McLaughlin of Lima led the doubles after the first weekend of play with a 1252 score.

Cage Team Ridiculed, Village May 'Secede'

CIRCLEVILLE—(INS)—The village of New Holland is threatening to secede from Pickaway county—and all because of a basketball game.

Ohio high school athletic commissioner ordered a game of Feb. 6 forfeited to Ashville because New Holland fans milled onto the floor and prevented an Ashville player, from attempting a last-second foul shot.

A resolution by the New Holland Booster club states that resultant "abuse and ridicule" has placed the village in a "position of great humiliation and disgrace."

The boosters are all for annexation by adjoining Fayette county or, better still, declaration that the village is "a separate and independent territory."

Wooster Rules Roost In Ohio Basketball

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Wooster's Scots ruled the roost in Ohio college basketball today as the teams started a final two weeks stretch drive in an effort to settle two doubtful conference titles.

The Ohio and Mid-American conferences were still wide open affairs, while the third conference concerning Ohio—the Big Nine—had left Ohio State far in the rear.

Wooster, with 10 victories against two losses in the Ohio conference and a 14-2 overall record, rode to top spot in the All-Ohio standings and became runnerup only to Ohio Wesleyan in the conference.

Ohio Wesleyan's Bishops, with a record of seven winnings against only one loss in league play, will feel the hot breath of the Scots on their necks this week.

The Bishops have the double task of traveling to Oberlin for a Tuesday game and then taking on Otterbein at home Saturday night, while the Scots have an easy assignment in Case at home Wednesday night.

In the Mid-American conference the surprising Cincinnati Bearcats pulled ahead in that race Saturday night by edging powerful Butler of Indiana, 58-56, to end a three-way tie.

Cincinnati, Butler and Miami started the week in first place but Ohio university's decision over Miami coupled with the Cincinnati victory put the Bearcats on top and Butler and Miami in second place.

The Bearcats, who seem to have come to life suddenly after an in-and-out season, also surprised nationally rated Duquesne of Pittsburgh, beaten only once heretofore, with a decisive 55-41 victory at the Queen City Music Hall Friday night.

Cincinnati will travel to Athens tomorrow night to engage ever-dangerous Ohio university and then the Bearcats will play host to Western Reserve at home Friday night for two tough games. If Cincinnati can get by those two they should have a fair chance for the title.

In other Mid-American conference games this week Miami will be at Western Michigan and Western Reserve will play at Ohio university. Both games are scheduled for Saturday night.

Ohio State will try to work the home-floor jinx on league-leading Wisconsin in a Western conference game at the Fairgrounds coliseum tonight. Wisconsin, staying just a step ahead of Michigan with a 6-2 record compared to the Wolverines' 5-2, could be knocked off the pace with a Buckeye victory.

Tonight a cage carnival at Toledo will feature Bowling Green, back home with a sparkling 21-5 record after a triumphant swing through the east, against Kent State and Wayne of Detroit against the Toledo Rockets.

Top Teams Face Tough Loop Foes

The Richland Beverage and Urschel Insurance teams, tied for first place in the National division of the City 'A' league, with Komitos, will face tough foes in league competition at the Mansfield high gym tonight.

The bottlers oppose Yunckers in the final clash of the card, while Urschel's team will tangle with Mansfield Tire in the middle game. Both the Beverage team and the Insurers have won seven of nine games to have the same record as Komitos in the National division and Ohio Sports center in the American.

In the other game scheduled for tonight Martin Hardware, a half-game out of first place in the American division, will play Barnes Manufacturing. The latter team has won three of nine games in the National division, but with the race heading toward the finish, bitter contests are expected in every duel played.

Yunckers has a 6-3 mark in the loop and both Martins and Yunckers have a chance to take over the lead if Ohio Sports Center fails in its next assignment.

The National division is wide open, and a loss at any stage of the race can ruin the hopes of Richland Beverage, Urschel's, or Komitos.

Lie Favors Paris For Assembly

French City Is Likely Candidate

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Paris stands head and shoulders above Brussels and Geneva today as the most likely candidate for the 1948 session of the United Nations General assembly.

In a report on European capitals visited to determine the most advantageous facilities for this annual gathering, U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie disclosed that the French capital not only has the most suitable facilities but also the most attractive currency situation through recent devaluation of the franc.

Lie presented his report to a nine-nation committee designated by the 1947 general assembly to consult with him on selection of the European site. The committee is considering the report this morning but Lie makes the final decision.

In anticipation by the 1947 U. N. budgetary committee of higher costs for an assembly session in Europe, the general assembly approved an extra sum of $1,047,875 for the 1948 meeting. Lie's estimates rank the extra cost for the general assembly in four candidate cities as follows:

Brussels—$1,173,021.
Geneva—$1,089,000.
The Hague—$4,500,000.
Paris—$1,089,000.

Those extra cost estimates in effect eliminate The Hague, where the facilities as defined in the report also are least suitable.

BELGIUM HANDICAPPED

Brussels falls into third place with its higher cost and the fact that the Belgian government has pronounced itself handicapped in providing sufficient hotel and other accommodations.

The two strongest arguments in favor of Paris, according to the Lie figures, are the French franc devaluation, spacious facilities for the assembly and extensive hotel accommodations available within a radius of three miles of the meeting place.

Since the extra cost of holding the assembly in Paris was based on the old franc rate of 218 to the dollar, the estimate goes sharply down and far below the U. N. appropriation on the basis of the current franc rate of 300 to the dollar.

The French government has offered Palais Chaillot, a splendid modern edifice which replaced the historic Trocadero. The building has space for plenary, council and committee meetings.

It is near the Tour Eiffel and within walking distance of the Champs Elysee and the shopping district. Lie's report records that there will be 2,900 hotel rooms available in the three-mile radius.

FRENCH PLEDGE AID

The French government, more than the other three, has promised to shoulder considerable expenditures in preparing for the assembly and making the necessary alterations.

At Lake Success, the reports persist that another attempt will be made by some member nations to upset the general assembly's decision to hold the 1948 session in Europe.

According to these reports, if a special session of the general assembly is called during the spring or summer to consider urgent issues like the Balkans, Korea or Palestine, a move will be launched to keep the 1948 meeting at Lake Success and Flushing Meadows.

Jury Upholds Teacher's Right To Use Paddle On His Pupils

BRIGHTON, Mich. — (UP) — Ezra Beachy, mild-mannered but stern-jawed Mennonite minister and teacher, testified Saturday that "a paddle does wonders in a schoolroom" and then was acquitted of a charge of beating a 12-year-old pupil with a piece of maple flooring.

An all-male justice court jury of six members deliberated less than an hour in upholding Beachy's right to discipline Richard Shaner and another boy when he caught them throwing chalk in the classroom.

The tiny town of Brighton had been divided sharply in sentiment over the infliction of "orporal punishment" on the boys. Beachy admitted turning them over a table and whacking them with the floor board.

Dressed severely in black with his rabat buttoned up to the chin, Beachy smilingly told the court that "my paddle has had several year's experience."

He said he had used the 18-inch length of polished maple with good effect for several years at schools in Hicks, Mich., before moving to the Hamburg district here. He also is a Mennonite minister at nearby Pinckney.

An assault and battery charge was brought against Beachy by Richard's angry father, Frank, who said his son bore welts for two weeks after the beating.

The town chose up sides and the state intervened to determine if teachers could discipline their pupils.

Rain-Making Tests Begun

WILMINGTON — (AP) — U. S. Air force pilots are conducting extensive tests on weather making possibilities.

They're primarily interested in learning whether placing dry ice in clouds causes rain, or if it would have rained anyway.

The all-weather flying center revealed its "cloud physics" project today. It said the work was started earlier this month. Base officials reported eight planes are "seeding" clouds in the Wilmington area with dry ice. The project area covers 55 weather recording stations.

PUT UP— OR SHUT UP

OUT IN THE OLD WILD WEST, a man's honor used to be judged by whether he made good on his promises.

It was put up—or shut up"

Today, there's a lot of talk about reducing prices. It seems as though everyone's in favor of it—including the National Association of Manufacturers.

The NAM buys big newspaper ads to advise the people how prices should be cut

One part the NAM makes is that business should pass on savings to consumers.

The NAM doesn't come right out and say corporations should cut prices But it is charitable to suppose the NAM meant just that

* * * *

WE DON'T know much about prices generally — just what we read in the newspapers

But we do know the prices on equipment that union members make

Take a standard wringer washing machine
In 1939 it sold retail for $60.
In 1942 it was $84 50
In early 1946 it cost $99 75
In late 1946 it was $116.50.
Today it costs $144 75.

* * * *

THOSE ARE THE PRICE increases of one product of one manufacturer. A lot of other manufacturers who belong to the NAM have raised their prices too

It is about time that the NAM practice what it preaches

The members of the NAM should reduce prices to fair levels by lowering profits, which have increased 40 per cent for all corporations in the last year alone—after payment of taxes

BUT HOPING that this will happen is something like hoping that a long-missing uncle will turn out to be a millionaire

With prices still rising, the people have but one solution. That is, to press for pay increases which will help them meet the burden of the mounting cost of living.

ARE YOU PROUD OF YOUR CAR?

There is something about spring . . . most people like to dress a little snappier, have the lawn look nice, etc. But what about the family car? Does it look nice? If it has a dent or two —chances are it's been let go! You know, we'll bet you'd have it painted if you knew how little it cost to knock out those dents and give it a coat of paint. Why not drop in for an estimate . . . no high . . . no obligation at all.

Schools Use Unit Method Of Teaching

Third Graders Learn By Outside Contacts

(Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of articles on changing methods in Mansfield public schools).

By ANN RICKABAUGH

By the time a child reaches the age of 9 or 10, he develops outside interests. As a result, teachers find that third and fourth grade pupils are ready to expand their education.

The pupil has learned what school is and feels a need to branch out. His capacity for understanding has greatly enlarged.

Mansfield teachers today are attempting to achieve more than the schools of yesteryear. Policy in the grades has turned into one of the Three R's Plus.

The unit method of teaching and new mechanical teaching devices are contributing the added fillip.

An example of what the unit method can accomplish is found in the fourth grade at Woodland school, where Miss Margaret Wadsworth teaches. One day the group took an imaginary trip inside a mine. The children were so interested in mines and their products that they expanded their study to an investigation of minerals.

WRITE LETTERS

The study of minerals led to all sorts of learning. The children developed their knowledge of composition and English while writing letters to state museums about minerals. They had to use the dictionary. They learned history by looking up the background of various salts. Geography played an important part in tracing location of minerals. Minerals were discovered in health books and reports and maps and globes were consulted.

The study continued to the consideration of earth as a storehouse of wealth, incorporating art and science in the inquiries. Conservation problems cropped up and the study even included international trade.

And, of course, each additional question involved more reading. The children have been encouraged to bring in displays, giving them a personal interest in the whole project. They take turns giving reports, which provides practice in oral expression.

'ANXIOUS TO DO WELL'

And because the investigations are conducted on levels meaningful to the fourth grade, the children themselves are "very anxious to do well," Miss Wadsworth reports.

Other teachers employ the unit system. A project on Norway led the children in grade three at Newman school to all kinds of instructive and interesting coordinated activities.

Virtually every part of the three R's and more is utilized in these unit projects. Arithmetic is always involved in dividing the class into groups, in the division of topics and in statistics of the projects themselves. Religion is discussed when the practices and laws of other countries come up for consideration.

The children doing a unit on colonial days at Bushnell school, for instance, questioned the true religious feeling of the early Puritans when they punished disbelievers with tortures and hanging.

COURTESY TAUGHT

Courtesy gets practical usage as the children work together. Spiritual values take on a deeper meaning as everyday life experiences and not just a Sunday habit.

Trips and visits to libraries and other institutions bring added knowledge. The junkets of grade schools to inspect the fire department, the recent trip on the train for the third grade at Prospect school — all these add to the experience of a child. They're not just "time out of school."

Such devices make easier both teaching and learning. Movies have educational as well as recreational value. The old abacus is coming back in new dress, helping children to understand fractions. Brightly colored discs and counting boards help with other arithmetic problems.

INTEREST INCREASES

At this time also, the youngsters begin taking interest in general school affairs. More and more this year they are able to participate in administration. This gives the children more respect for the work that teachers do and for the machinery which makes a school go.

The process of elections is learned early with the election of class officers, complete with campaign posters, debates and speeches.

In some of the grade schools, student delegates attend teachers meetings, discussing school problems and their instructors. A chance for expression is there and teachers find their suggestions valuable. In turn the students have more pride in their school and what is necessary to make it run smoothly.

JOIN 25-YEAR CLUB—Here are 19 new members of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company's 25-year club who were honored last week end at a party at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Employes who have been with the firm at least a quarter century are eligible for membership. Pictured in the front row, left to right, are P. M. Gifford, Henry Hock, Fred Caston, Florence Case, Perry Bush, William Frontz, and Martin Dinger. In the back row, left to right, are Floyd Schneider, J. C. Snouffer, Clyde Ruhl, J. F. Heiser, Adam Keifer, W. G. Brickley, Cletus Thiel, Roy C. Waxler, A. A. Stratman, Amos Minard, Floyd Peters, and Ralph Paul. Two other new members, Vern L. Anderegg and Max. L. Garber, were absent when the picture was made.

A Fighting Yank In Kashmir—Conclusion

Assassins Fail In Effort To Kill Haight

By RUSSELL K. HAIGHT
Former Brigadier General, Azad (Free) Kashmir International Brigade

(Copyright, 1948)

DENVER —(INS)— Two gunmen came at me out of a dark alley as I walked down a quiet street in Rawalpindi, Pakistan.

It was after midnight, and I was returning from a party. But when I saw the glint of moonlight on a pistol barrel, I hit the dirt.

A bullet kicked my hat as I went down. I rolled over, pulling my .38 from its shoulder holster. The men crouched now, not more than thirty feet away, and fired again.

I traded shot for shot with them. Mine hit: I saw one halfturn with my third bullet, and then fall heavily on his back.

I sent the other three bullets at the second man. He slumped slowly to his knees, and then pitched forward on his face.

I lay there quietly for a moment, breathing heavily. Neither of the gunmen moved.

I picked myself up and dusted off my Stetson, and then I felt the hole. One bullet had gone through the tip of the brim and the crown, about an eighth of an inch from where I part my hair.

REMEMBERS HOME

Suddenly I realized it wasn't the hat they'd been after.

And I remembered my wife and child, back in Denver, and ice-cream cones and beer, and movies on Saturday nights.

I was on my way home.

I quickly realized that I couldn't go back to my room at Punch House, where I'd been staying with Mitha and Ready, my communist "friends," who were handling "publicity" for the Kashmir Moslems.

Whoever had sent the gunmen for me probably had more waiting there.

Instead I went to the home of the British intelligence officer whom I had tipped off about the mysterious convoy Mitha and Ready tried to smuggle to India that day.

We talked all night, theorizing about who had tried to have me killed. In the morning he did some checking. And then he apologized.

It seemed that he'd told the Parkistan police to stop the convoy at the border. The police did that. But it seemed that there were leaks in the Pakistan police department. And my communist "pals" knew where the tip had come from.

OFFERS AID

So in repayment for spoiling my advancing career with Azad Kashmir army, he offered to help me cross the Pakistan border into India.

I said: "That's fine. Here they want to shoot me. In India they want to hang me. The Indian government claims my international brigade committed atrocities."

In the end he persuaded me that I'd be safer trying to hide in India, where the government didn't know I was around, than in Rawalpindi, where the communists did.

He made me shave off my moustache. I have a set of handle- bars five inches long that it had taken me six months to raise. I hated to lose that growth, but I needed the disguise.

Then I put on civilian clothes and was taken to the railroad station.

I didn't think any one would recognize me without my uniform and moustache. I got on the train and went into a first class compartment.

As we pulled out of the station, a major of the Pakistan army whom I knew opened the compartment door and stepped in.

He took one look at me, and said: "Haight, what have you done to yourself?"

I replied that I was going to see the United States consul at Lahore, and I wanted to look like a civilian American.

Then I decided that maybe my best bet was to get off at Lahore and see the consul after all.

VISITS CONSULATE

I went directly from the station to the consulate. I knew I'd be about as welcome as the town drunk at the church picnic but I thought I'd get some help.

All I got was what the drunk got—a stuffy lecture and a lot of self-righteousness.

As I sat deliberating in a Lahore bar, I had an idea.

American and British newsmen in Pakistan were always crossing the border, into India writing about the evacuation of Hindu refugees from Moslem Pakistan.

I went around to the India refugee evacuation office and introduced myself as a reporter for the Denver Post. It wasn't exactly a complete lie, because I'd worked for the Post once, though only as a printer's devil.

Luckily, there was a young Hindu captain who wanted his name in an American newspaper. If I could remember it now I'd put it in. I'm very grateful to him for putting me on a refugee truck so that I could write a story about it. I crossed the border safely.

In India I was lucky. The Indian government never did learn I was in the country, although I stayed a week.

I made friends with an airline clerk in Amritsar who also wanted to see his name in the Denver Post and who, in return, didn't ask to see my passport when he put me on the plane for New Delhi.

HID WITH FRIENDS

There, I hid out with friends in a hotel room for six days. I can't name them, because they're still in India.

They took me to the American embassy, and this time I got a different reception. It seemed that my disappearance from Kashmir and Pakistan had attracted a good deal of attention in India and home.

I was shown one of the newspaper reactions to my escape. It was an article in the familiar People's Age—the Bombay edition of the Daily Worker that Mitha and Ready used to quote to me.

It was headed "brigadier or spy?", and it charged that I was an American secret agent paving the way for "Yankee imperialism."

I wasn't a secret agent, but I had learned much that the military attache of the U. S. embassy in New Delhi was glad to hear about.

The embassy lent me $1,000 and put me on a plane for home. I left Jan. 28, and I was in New York Jan. 29—but it was more than a voyage in time and space. I went from one world to another overnight.

It's peaceable and quiet here in Denver, and I don't have to worry about ducking bullets all the time. But I guess the taste of thrills in Kashmir spoiled me.

Would I do it all over again? You bet.
